Dear Sir:

April 24, 2000 is the deadline for watersheds comments. Herewith are my comments before the deadline.

I oppose the executive imposition of orders and conditions on Western lands which are done without following required executive procedures.

Why were not all land users and property owners notified about this new watershed emphasis?

Why were only four public meetings scheduled?

Why are you pushing this while litigation is pending?

Where does multiple use fit in? Will existing plans have to be revised?

Why is there no cost-benefit analysis required?

What is the cumulative impact of the UFP with the other 110 CWAP actions?

How will public interest be gauged and used in the decision making process?

Why did you not define "significant public use values?"

What are the indicators of improvements?

What kinds of "special protection" do you propose?

What is the expected cost and time frame for implementation?

Will you please provide me with some answers?

Yours truly,

Thomas O. Breitling
